By JIM BRADLEY
Roman Staff Writer

A young Romulus couple died early Sunday evening when a kitchen gas stove apparently exploded and engulfed their mobile home in flames at Royal Village Trailer Park, on Van Born Road, just west of Inkster Road, in Romulus.

Although the first Romulus fire truck was on the scene just three minutes after the 6 p.m. call, the occupants, Donald Decker, 29, and his wife, Jo Ann, 23, were found burned to death in the charred ruins of their 10 by 40-foot mobile home.

Romulus Fire Chief John Wilhide arrived at 6:09 p.m. and was told by the trailer park manager and other onlookers that someone was believed to be in the flaming trailer.

"As best we can determine, the couple had been having some difficulty with their furnace and were using the gas burners on the kitchen stove to help heat the trailer," said Wilhide.

"We believe the gas burners exploded in the face of Mrs. Decker, killing her instantly. Mr. Decker, who was sick with terminal cancer, was in the bedroom and was trapped in the flames as he tried to get off the bed."

Wilhide said Decker was half on the bed and half on the floor when they found him. He estimated that it only takes seven to 10 minutes for a mobile home to completely burn.

"We found three melted burners on the kitchen gas stove and this happens when they are used for a long period of time without anything cooking on the burners," Wilhide said.

"There definitely was some kind of flareup from the burners that killed Mrs. Decker," he said. "A state fire inspector is going to check out the stove to determine exactly what happened."

Although the fire raged only a few minutes, it left the older model mobile home in charred ruins. Half of one side of the trailer was burned out and the intense heat had melted through the metal frame in several places. Inside, burned debris covered the floor, scorched remains of family possessions lay scattered about and even part of Mrs. Decker's singed dress clung to the blackened floor.

Outside on the ground lay scattered pages from the 1970 Farmington High School yearbook, apparently a possession of Mrs. Decker's.

Although the fire is still under investigation, Wilhide said he hoped people would learn from the tragic incident.

"People definitely shouldn't use a cook stove for heating purposes," he said. "They're not designed for this type of use and the results can be disastrous."

Wilhide said the deaths were the first in Romulus this year.

They need help — to help the needy

The Romulus Goodfellows will be out in full force at 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, to carry on the tradition of "No kiddie without a Christmas."

A large group of volunteer workers, headed by Chairman Fred Williams and Co-chairman Jerry Kubiak, will cover all the major intersections of the city as well as the large shopping areas.

"We were able to help 222 families have a nice Christmas last year," Kubiak said, "and we're hoping to increase that number this year. We're thankful for the dedicated volunteers who come from all parts of the city's population to help in this annual drive to help needy families in the true Christmas spirit."

Helping in the drive will be Goodfellows' secretary-treasurer Bob Lee, along with volunteers from the fire and police departments, the Sheriff's Romulus reserve unit, city officials and other interested citizens.

"We have gone to the practice of giving gift certificates," Kubiak explained, "that can be cashed in for food, clothing and toys for the needy families. The amount of the certificate will depend upon the generosity of the good people of Romulus."

Volunteers also will be selling Goodfellow newspapers at Metropolitan Airport terminals and are hoping for a good response.

Persons wishing to help sell Goodfellow newspapers should call Jerry Kubiak at 941-0666 to offer their services.

"We need everybody we can get to help and the great personal satisfaction of helping someone in need is the biggest reward of all," he said.

These Goodfellows are after your hearts

Romulus Goodfellows have increased the number of Goodfellow newspapers this year and are looking forward to a "super" response when they hit the streets early Saturday, Dec. 11. They will cover the main intersections and shopping areas so that no needy family will go without a Christmas. If you're stopped by a policeman on Dec. 11, there's a good chance it'll only be to ask you to buy a Goodfellow's paper. Some 22 Romulus families were helped last year and the Goodfellows hope to increase that number this season. Gathered for this pre-sale pep rally are, (from left) Jerry Kubiak, co-chairman of the Romulus Goodfellows and public safety director; Fire Inspector Bill Fralick; Sheriff's Reserve Police Chief Bert Girardin; Mayor James Stewart; Police Reserve Bob Griffin and Fire Chief John Wilhide.

City council moves to hike water rates

Romulus City Council took steps last week to see that the water and sewer department pays its own way when it passed the first reading of a new ordinance.

Under the new ordinance, the average user would pay $25.20 per quarter, based on 2,000 cubic feet of water used at the proposed rate of $5.50. The average user now pays $18.33 each three months. Council passed a 39 percent increase in October, raising the former rate of $2.50 per 1,000 cubic feet to the present $3.48.

The water and sewer ordinance, a modified version of one written by the late city attorney William Munger, set a flat rate of $5.50 per 1,000 cubic feet of water.

The motion to adopt the ordinance was made by Councilman William Oakley, supported by Councilman Bob Martin, and received affirmative votes from Councilman Fred Block and Gerry Canejo.

Council members Beverly McAnally and Jimmy Raspberry dissented in the 4-2 vote, and Councilwoman Joan Lee was absent.

The ordinance contains several minor changes, according to City Clerk Leonard Folmar, and when agreement is reached on those items, a second and final reading will be scheduled.

Since five votes are needed to pass the second reading, it appears that Mrs. Lee may hold the key vote.

Only last week, Romulus Mayor James Stewart said no more water and sewer bills would be paid out of the city's general fund. The general fund is "going broke," according to city officials, because the water and sewer rates are not high enough to pay their own way.

The council recently rejected its own auditor's recommendation that it pass the ordinance, calling for a flat $5.50 rate at that time Stewart said: "No more city funds are going to pay water and sewer bills. It's time that department paid its own way like it's supposed to."

But warns of 'disappointments'

Ford urges projects approval

WASHINGTON — Congressman William D. Ford (D-Mich.) is working actively with local officials and with the Economic Development Administration to bring Federal money — and jobs — into his 15th District, under provisions of the new Public Works Employment Act.

The bill, passed by Congress in July over President Ford's veto, authorizes some $3.95 billion and is expected to create nearly 400,000 jobs throughout the nation.

Ford said that most of the 21 communities and 16 School Districts in the 15th Congressional District have applied for funding under the public works section of the bill.

Applications have been filed for projects ranging from municipal buildings and fire stations to paving, sewers, hospital improvements, vocational education centers and social services facilities.

Ford has personally endorsed each of the programs in his district to the regional director of the Economic Development Administration, which is processing all applications.

"My District, and the Detroit metropolitan area in general, has suffered more than any area of the nation from unemployment," Ford noted. "This is the most effective Federal program we have to bring money and jobs into the area, and help put people back to work."

Ford, in urging Federal approval of 15th District projects, emphasizes that the money will not only provide jobs, but will provide needed public works that will improve the quality of life for local residents.

The congressman noted, however, that local officials have responded in unexpected volume to the program, and he predicted that there will be many disappointments when the grants are made.

"There just isn't enough money authorized in the bill to cover the nation's pressing needs," he said. "Our original bill, which was successfully vetoed by the President, would have allocated $6.1 billion."

Ford revealed that he had already been in touch with President-Elect Carter's top issues advisors to urge early action on jobs-creating legislation.

Belleville woman ends nautical recruit training

A Belleville woman has completed her recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Orlando, Fla.

Navy Seaman Recruit Donna R. Cook, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Cook of 16 Pine Drive, Belleville, studied general military subjects designed to prepare for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields during the 8-week training cycle.

Among the subjects she studied were close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

She joined the Navy in July 1976.

Also in the armed forces:

Marine Pfc. Timothy A. Sole, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughie M. Sole of 10000 Clayton, Belleville, has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank upon graduation from recruit training at the Marine Corps

Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S.C.

He received the early promotion for his superior performance during all phases of the 11-week training cycle, which emphasized physical conditioning, self-discipline and teamwork.

A 1975 graduate of Belleville High School, he joined the Marine Corps in July 1976.

S. Sgt. James C. Uhik, the son of Mrs. William Sisk of 1525 Ash, Carleton, has graduated from the Tactical Air Command Noncommissioned Officer Leadership School at Myrtle Air Force Base, S. C.

The sergeant, who was trained in military management and supervision, is a supply systems specialist at Myrtle Beach.

Sgt. Uhik is a 1968 graduate of Monroe High School.

Addition doubles present capacity

Allison expansion to create 300 new jobs

Detroit Diesel Allison has announced plans for two major expansion projects in Romulus that will create more than 300 new jobs.

Together they total over 800,000 square feet—about 20,000 square feet larger than the parts manufacturing plant the GM division opened in Romulus earlier this year.

The proposed projects are a 574,000-square-foot addition to the parts distribution center and a 230,000-square-foot engineering test facility.

There will be a public hearing on the proposed expansion at 7 p.m. on Dec. 14 at Romulus City Hall.

The new facilities will be built on a company owned 375-acre tract in northwest Romulus, the site of the division's new manufacturing plant and parts distribution center.

James E. Knott, division general manager and a GM vice-president, said the Romulus property was selected for the two needed expansions because of proximity to the existing facilities and "because of the climate of cooperation that exists between government and industry in that city."

Work on the two projects is scheduled to begin next spring, with completion of the parts center addition by the end of 1978 and the engineering facility by mid-1979.

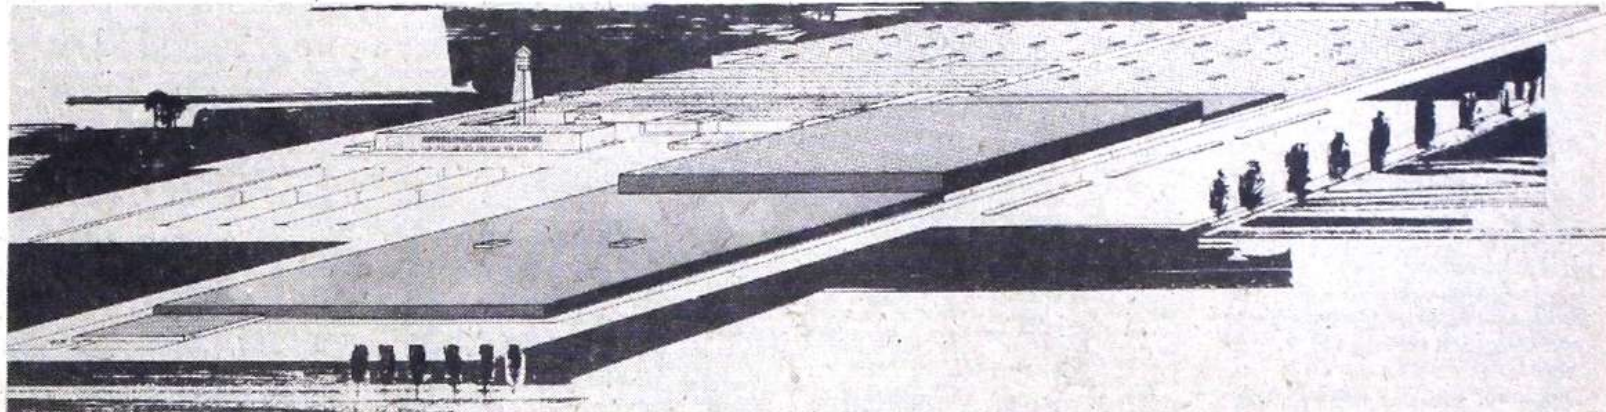

The parts center addition, biggest of the two proposed expansions, will allow Detroit Diesel Allison to consolidate its worldwide distribution of diesel engine and transmission aftermarket service parts in Romulus. Parts distribution is presently handled by centers in Romulus and Indianapolis.

The addition would allow plant space to be freed in Indianapolis, permitting expansion of the division's manufacturing and engineering areas there.

Aerospace and military transmission service parts operations, however, will remain in Indianapolis.

Plans call for the 574,000-square-foot addition in Romulus to adjoin the existing 526,000-square-foot parts distribution center at 36501 Van Born Road, creating a 1.1 million-square-foot consolidated facility—more than double the size of the present one.

The second part of the expansion project, the engineering test facility,

Facility is expanding

This is an artist's conception of the 1.1 million-square-foot consolidated parts distribution center Detroit Diesel Allison plans to create on its property in Romulus. The center will greatly enhance efficiency of the division's worldwide parts network. The above view highlights the planned 574,000-square-foot addition to the existing facility, which is shown in the background.

is planned for the far southwest corner of the same Romulus property, just west of the division's manufacturing plant at 36880 Ecorse Road.

It will be operated by the division's engineering department for work on engine development, modification and testing.

Detroit Diesel Allison's main engineering facilities are located at division headquarters at 13400 W. Outer Drive in Detroit and Redford Township. Lack of available space there has led the division to seek expansion elsewhere.

Like the warehouse addition, it will be serviced by a central utility core area already on the site, which can be expanded to meet the added requirements.

The two proposed expansion projects, combined with existing buildings already on the Romulus site, would bring Detroit Diesel Allison's total Romulus facilities to nearly two and a quarter million square feet.

Alcohol treatment program available at Wayne General

A new service will be available to Western Wayne County residents with the location of a separate, autonomous Alcohol Treatment Program on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise.

The treatment center, approved by the Wayne County Board of Institutions, will be located in N Building, Unit N-109 South, and will provide 72-hour inpatient detoxification services, as well as referral to other treatment services on an outpatient basis.

According to a spokesman for the Board of Institutions, the center will have 14 beds available for inpatient services and will accept patients either directly or after evaluation from the hospital's emergency room.

The spokesman went on to say that admissions also will be accepted from families, Emergency Medical Services, police or other agencies, and will be handled on an around-the-clock, walk-in, voluntary basis.

A 3-day stay should be expected by patients in order to assure adequate detoxification, medical screening, counseling, education and referral.

The program represents the cooperative interests of the Board of Institutions, Wayne County Department of Substance Abuse Services, Michigan Department of Public Health and hospital staff, the spokesman added.

It is one of five pilot programs in the state developed in response to the passage of Public Act 339 which diverts persons formerly arrested for public intoxication from the criminal justice system into the health services system, the spokesman said.

The purposes of the program are to test treatment systems with the evaluated results being used to modify the legislation prior to its state-wide implementation in October 1977. The philosophy of the state act is that alcoholism is a disease that medical treatment and counseling, the spokesman continued.

Fees at the treatment center will be on a sliding pay scale that will take into consideration the client and or family income and his or her ability to pay. If an individual is covered by a medical insurance plan, it will be utilized to cover laboratory fees, treatment and unit costs. The spokesman emphasized that no one will be denied services because of inability to pay.

The center will be staffed with professionals trained in alcohol counseling, nurses to assess both problem drinking and medical complications. The staff will be working under the direction of physician trained in alcohol treatment.

The medical director of the program will be Dr. Carl Rauch, M.D., while Vincent Deloach will be the program director.

In addition a full range of back-up medical, referral counseling and community services also will be available. Those services are considered vital to the recovery of a problem drinker and his successful adjustment, the spokesman concluded.

Further information on the Alcohol Treatment Center can be obtained by calling 721-5190 or 721-6320.

Swine flu clinic continues at Eloise

The swine flu clinic being held this week at "J" Building of the Eloise health complex will be extended for another week according to Dr. Perry Stearns, director of the Wayne County Health Department.

The extended clinic will be held December 6-11 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday. Clinic hours on Saturday, Dec. 11 will be from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. "J" Building is located on Merriman Road just north of Michigan Avenue.

The clinic is for both the high risk and the general population 18 years of age and older. High risk is defined as anyone 60 years of age and older, or anyone over 18 with a chronic illness.

People with fevers or having egg, chicken or feather allergies will not be vaccinated at these clinics.

Dr. Stearns indicated that the December 11 clinic probably would be the last swine flu clinic held in Wayne County. For more information call 729-6616.

Belleville Christmas parade taking shape

People are feverishly working on their floats and musicians are tuning up their instruments in final preparation for the annual Belleville Christmas Parade that will take place Sat., Dec. 18.

Sponsored by the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, the Christmas Parade is one of the highlights of the year and everyone is invited to participate.

"There is still time for area clubs, service organizations, civic groups, churches, businesses and individuals to participate in the parade by entering floats and yuletide displays," Chairman Pete Doyle said this week.

"Also, there is a need for musicians, preferably bands and musical groups—but time is running out, so everyone should move in a hurry."

The Chamber is soliciting advertising for a coloring book to be given to more than 7,000 children this Christmas, and Leona VanBuhler, chamber secretary, urged persons to respond immediately.

"Time has a way of going by so fast, so we urge everyone to act immediately in making floats or entering the parade in some way, because the parade will be here before we realize it," Mrs. VanBuhler said.

More information may be obtained by calling Pete Doyle at 699-2287 or Mrs. VanBuhler at the Chamber office, 697-7151

Hot lunch program inaugurated

The senior citizens' hot lunch program was inaugurated Monday at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 494 Columbia, across from Belleville High School, and almost 100 seniors turned out. Kuckelman adds still another honor

Ted Kuckelman added still another honor to his endless list recently when Belleville Rotary Club made him an honorary member during its Rotary Foundation Week celebration.

In bestowing the title, Bill Ives, past Rotary district governor, said: "We do not honor folks who do nothing, we honor folks who do something."

Kuckelman, a member of the Belleville Rotary since 1942, also is a past district governor which Rotary remembers best for his teaching men how to serve, according to Ives.

"Ted is a friend who is creative, positive and always looking for solutions," Ives added.

Charles Cozzad, chairman of the Rotary Foundation Committee, introduced Ozzie Zakis of Canadian Bell Telephone Co. as guest speaker.

Zakis spoke about his five weeks in Finland as a member of a group study team exchange, sponsored by the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International.

Ann O'Beay, of Belleville, currently is at Reading University in England on a similar exchange program.

New accolade

Long-time member of many service clubs and area chambers of commerce, Belleville's Ted Kuckelman last week was tabbed for still another accolade. The Belleville Rotary Club conferred the title of honorary member on the venerable Kuckelman who was cited for his "creative, positive" service in the 34 years he has belonged to the local Belleville Rotary Club. Presenting the certificate to Kuckelman were Charles Cozzad (from left) Raymond Kohr, Kuckelman and Orlo Roberts.

Romulus to host income tax institute

Romulus will be a host city for one of a series of income tax institutes to be sponsored by the University of Michigan at nine or more locales during the next two months.

The income tax institutes will be taught by representatives from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and from Michigan's Department of Revenue, according to a spokesman for the IRS headquarters in Detroit.

The 2-day tax schools are geared to the basic level of tax law understanding. They are suitable for persons interested in preparation of their own tax returns or for prospective tax practitioners.

Topics to be presented at the institutes will include federal tax law changes, filing requirements, gross income and adjustments to income, exemptions, standard and itemized deductions, tax credits and computations.

Michigan income tax topics will include discussions on income subject to tax, additions, subtractions and credits.

The institute in Romulus is scheduled for Dec. 13 and 14 at the Ramada Inn-Metro Airport. Persons interested in the basic tax institutes should contact the University of Michigan Extension Service at (313) 764-5304, or write University of Michigan Extension Service, Conferences and Institutes, 412 Maynard, Ann Arbor 48109, Attn: Tax Institutes.

Advance enrollment is required.

South JHS cheerleaders take third

Seven Belleville South Junior High School cheerleaders recently returned home from cheerleading camp in Midland, Mich., where they took third-place honors.

Attending the Dynamic Cheerleading Association (DCA), the girls learned four pom-pom routines and various new cheers and chants.

The weeklong clinic taught the girls not only the routines, but also squad leadership, self-improvement and how to initiate school spirit.

The camp counselors, all of whom are past or present cheerleaders, did pep rallies and skits for the girls to learn and use in their school cheers.

Included in the cheerleading team were Capt. Susan Shoup; Betsy Nota, co-captain; LaNae Voelker; Autis Speights, Suzanne Stabau; Lynette Weathers and Jackie Turrentine.

AUTO FACTS

By Chester Kosin

Misfiring occurs when one or more spark plugs fail to ignite the cylinder's fuel charge. Mechanics call this a "missing" cylinder or cylinders. The most obvious clue: part of the engine's smooth roar is absent, as if there were a hole in the sound. Misfiring at idling speed causes rough idling. It also tends to occur under two other conditions: at high engine speeds without a heavy load, and under a heavy load. The trouble is usually in the ignition system. Should your car misfire, have it checked as soon as possible.

A complete line of top-performing parts for foreign and domestic cars is available at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! We offer fast, friendly and expert counter service and our knowledgeable staff will be happy to advise "do-it-yourself" mechanics on the parts they need for their particular cars. We also carry all types of automotive tools. Our full machine shop handles all kinds of repair service and work is done by expert machinists. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

HANDY HINT: Now and then, see that all spark plug cables are firmly seated in their towers of the distributor cap and pushed tightly onto each plug.

Public utility consultant calls for Edison rate cut

A public utility expert, called by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley in testimony presented to the Public Service Commission (PSC) recently has concluded that Detroit Edison's electric rates should be cut on both a temporary and permanent basis.

John W. McCabe III, a Washington, D.C., utility consultant, told the PSC that it should not grant Detroit Edison's rate hike request of $130 million but should, instead, cut Detroit Edison's rates immediately by $10,617,000 on a temporary basis. McCabe testified that when permanent rates are established Detroit Edison should receive a cut of $31,733,000.

McCabe, in his testimony, cited five primary reasons for cutting Detroit Edison's rates.

—Edison has been able to double a $62.4 million rate increase, granted earlier this year by the PSC, as a result of court action. That increase was granted March 30.

—Edison has overcharged customers by $31,840,000 during the first four months of operation under a new purchased power adjustment clause.

—Edison had record earnings available for stockholders during the third quarter of 1976. The earnings in that quarter exceeded earnings in the same 1975 period by 38 percent.

—Edison's rates remain among the highest in the nation according to a Federal Power Commission study.

In his testimony McCabe said: "While the battle is being fought in the courts over whose rates are correct, the commission's or the Court, Edison ratepayers are the big losers from the regulatory chaos that results and are ending up paying rates much higher than can possibly be justified by sound regulatory practice."

Kelley said: "I hope the testimony of this independent expert will convince the PSC to give the Detroit Edison ratepayers some long needed relief. These record earnings and huge overcharges should not be followed by even higher rates."

The technical staff of the Public Service Commission recommended last week that Detroit Edison be permitted to increase its rates by approximately $39 million. The staff report said $19 million of that should be granted immediately.

Owen moves to new leader role in House

State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-Ypsilanti) was elected associate speaker pro tem by the House Democratic Caucus.

In his new leadership position for the 1977-78 session of the Legislature, Owen will preside over sessions of the House in conjunction with Speaker Bobby D. Crim (D-Davison) and Speaker Pro Tem Matthew McNeely (D-Detroit).

The presiding officers are selected every two years by caucus of the majority party.

Owen recently was elected to his third term in the House. In addition to his new leadership position, he is expected to be reappointed to the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

As associate speaker, Owen will replace Representative James E. O'Neill, Jr. (D-Saginaw), who did not seek re-election to that office.

Ghoulish visit

On the Friday before Halloween South Junior High School was "crawling" with ghouls, vampires and "things that go bump..." on the dance floor. Anyone who visited teacher William Loyd's biology classes would have seen ghouls and other strange beings mixing chemicals and conducting biochemical experiments and may have thought of the story of Dr.

Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde. Pam Maier (left) and Wendy Haglund pour the magic potion under the watchful eye of Loyd. After school there was a "Monster Mash" dance which was attended by vampires, ghouls, ballerinas, soldiers, cheerleaders (with hairy legs), outer space aliens and even one person dressed as a large fig.

"I'd like to help, but I'm just one person."

Maybe you can't help others all by yourself. That's no excuse for doing nothing. Join with others at your local synagogue or church. There's plenty you can do together. Example: In Wisconsin, one religious group set up a halfway house to help women parolees fit themselves back into society. The God we worship expects us to seek out those who need our help, and to help them.

Secrecy shrouds campaigns for leadership

Seven top leaders of the 95th Congress will be chosen soon, but the public is hardly aware of this important wind-up to the 1976 election year. Heated races for House majority leader and for the leadership of both parties in the Senate are going on behind the closed doors of the Capitol cloakrooms.

"The questions being asked of candidates are 'What have you done for me?' and 'What will you do for me?'"

Common Cause President David Cohen has said: "Neither the public nor members of the House and Senate know the contestants' positions on the central issues facing the next Congress — its own integrity, accountability and efficiency."

Common Cause has sent questions to each candidate eliciting his views on major congressional reform measures.

By DAVID COHEN
President,
Common Cause

Members of the 95th Congress face more vacancies in top leadership posts than any Congress in this century. They also face a continuing institutional crisis: public confidence in the Legislative Branch has continued to plummet in response to Capitol Hill scandals and Congress' apparent paralysis as a decision-making body. Pollster Louis Harris found last spring that only nine percent of Americans were willing to express "great confidence" in Congressional leaders.

Seven offices will change hands when House Democrats hold their caucus on this Monday and at the first meetings of Senate Democrats and Republicans on January 5. House Democrats will choose a new speaker, a new majority leader and a new majority whip. In the Senate, both parties will elect new leaders and whips.

The scramble for leadership offices is invisible to the public eye. There are no public campaign events: candidates range along a trail studded with little dinners "For Members of Congress Only" and big testimonial dinners where the votes of colleagues are greased by campaign contributions raised by leadership contenders. Election night congratulatory telephone calls were made to newly elected Senators and Representatives. Heavy pressure is exerted by senior members to get other members of their state's Congressional delegation to vote as a group, theoretically ensuring a constant flow of legislative favors — public works projects, military installations, etc. — if their candidate is elected.

In this atmosphere of mutual back-scratching, the central issue — how party leaders will lead — gets lost. To remedy that, Common Cause has put some specific questions to the candidates about what they will do to accomplish the major task facing the winners: making Congress an institution that merits the public's trust by taking steps to ensure its integrity, accountability and efficiency.

CONGRESSIONAL ETHICS

The endless stream of scandals which rocked the 94th Congress right through its adjournment placed Congressional ethics at the top of the agenda for the 95th, as Speaker-to-be Thomas (Tip) O'Neill acknowledged in a Nov. 7 "Boston Globe" interview.

"When I become Speaker," O'Neill said, "the finest legal minds in the House will draw up a strong code of ethics for every member of the House. We'll discuss it, then we'll adopt it."

O'Neill's statement was prompted by the continuing revelations of undisclosed gifts accepted by representatives from the well-financed Korean lobby headed by Tongsun Park. A number of other scandals came to light this year which were left unresolved by ethics committees in both the House and the Senate:

- Last December, a committee of Gulf Oil Corp. reported that the company had dispersed over $5 million in illegal campaign contributions to dozens of members of Congress, but no Congressional action was taken against anyone involved in the case. The Senate Ethics Committee voted overwhelmingly not to investigate allegations that Sen. Hugh Scott had received over $100,000 from a Gulf lobbyist, John McCloy, who headed Gulf's investigation committee, complained that "nobody seems to be able to make the Senate Ethics Committee do anything."

- The House finally reprimanded Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes (D-Fla.) for conflicts of interest between his business dealings and his legislative activities, but the House Ethics Committee acted only after more than a year of escalating controversy and on a sworn complaint by Common Cause; his removal as chairman of an important Appropriations Subcommittee will be a major issue in the organizing caucus meeting;

- In February, 1976, eighteen members of Congress admitted receiving free hunting trips from various defense contractors — against which there is already a House rule — but no Congressional action was taken. House Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt (D-Ga.) and Senate Ethics Committee Chairman Howard Cannon (D-Nev.) were among the beneficiaries of this corporate largesse.

These cases suggest Congress needs not only improvements in its ethics rules but also in its enforcement mechanisms. Common Cause has asked candidates for the leadership of both houses what new enforcement procedures they would support — including the establishment of an outside commission to investigate conflicts of interest — as well as what changes in the House and Senate Codes of Ethics they propose.

The 94th Congress failed to enact conflict of interest legislation calling for public disclosure of financial holdings of congressmen and high executives. The candidates for leadership in the 95th Congress have been asked if they will make this legislation, as well as reform of the 1946 lobby law, a high priority for 1977.

OVERHAULING THE COMMITTEE SYSTEM

After a year of study, the Senate Temporary Select Committee on the Committee System, chaired by Senator Adlai Stevenson III (D-Ill.), will present a plan early in the session to reorganize the Senate's clanking, antiquated machinery.

The current committee system was designed in 1946 and hasn't undergone a major overhaul in 30 years. The result has been a system where increasingly outmoded, fragmented jurisdictions prevent a coherent approach to current policy decisions. The Stevenson plan would substantially reorganize committees and jurisdictional boundary lines, reducing the number of committees from 31 to 15 and the number of subcommittees from 174 to 100.

Particularly at a time when major executive branch reorganization plans are in the works, the Senate should put committee reorganization at the top of its agenda. Senate leadership candidates are asked in the Common Cause questionnaire whether they are willing to help bring the Stevenson committee plan to the floor as the first order of business in January and what if any changes in the proposal they favor.

Common Cause has also asked House leadership candidates whether they favor removing legislative jurisdiction from the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy (JCAE), the only joint Congressional committee with the power to review bills. The JCAE was established in 1947 to deal with nuclear matters when the chief concern was to keep the atomic secret. By 1976, when a national energy policy was needed, the joint committee had become so one-sidedly pro nuclear development that its procedures denied rational consideration of all alternatives.

GOING PUBLIC

One of the chief responsibilities of congressional leaders is to represent Congress to the public and the press, articulating goals and priorities. In the past, leaders only occasionally made themselves available for in-depth interviews and questions: Speaker Carl Albert and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield preferred brief meetings with Capitol Hill reporters before each day's congressional session. Common Cause has asked leadership candidates what they would do to improve the public's understanding of the congressional program.

Candidates have also been asked whether they will support changes in House and Senate rules to permit broadcasting of floor proceedings. Last February, a House subcommittee headed by Rep. B.F. Sisk (D-Calif.) recommended gavel-to-gavel recording of House proceedings with broadcasters allowed to use excerpts for radio and television programs. Ultimately, the House Rules Committee voted to block the proposed broadcasting resolution after objections were raised by Albert and O'Neill.

PROCEDURAL QUESTIONS

Major pieces of legislation often die when Congress adjourns. This year, among the victims of congressional inaction were amendments to the Clean Air Act and a strong lobby disclosure bill which passed the House too late to be reconciled with a Senate version passed earlier in the year. Opponents of such bills, though clearly in the minority, had the power to frustrate the majority of their colleagues by stalling.

In the House, the problem could be overcome by the majority party if its Steering and Policy Committee periodically reviewed pending legislation and designated top priority items. Common Cause has asked leadership candidates how they would utilize the Democratic Steering and Policy Committee to assure that important legislation is not sidetracked and whether they will provide members of Congress and the public with periodic status reports on priority issues.

In the Senate, a number of major bills were blocked by small minorities using a variety of new tactics to augment the traditional filibuster, which can be broken more easily as a result of reforms adopted in the last Congress. Leadership candidates have been asked whether they will seek adoption of new Senate rules to replace ancient provisions — like those permitting repeated quorum calls — on which recent delaying tactics have hinged.

Common Cause has also asked whether leadership candidates will support the new election procedures for Senate committee chairmen adopted in the last Congress. The rules now provide for individual ballots on chairmen so that members can express their satisfaction or unhappiness with the way committee business has been conducted. Candidates have been questioned on whether they will support the requirement of the new procedure for making public the vote total on each committee chairman.

If Congress is to regain the respect and trust of citizens, its leaders must face up to the challenge of proving the institution's integrity and making the Legislative Branch workable and accountable. These matters are too important to be left to secret party rites. Candidates for congressional leadership posts should tell the public and their colleagues just what they would do as leaders.

As we see it

Area should back Westland's pitch for hockey club

ALL COMMUNITIES in Western Wayne County should support the city of Westland's bid to lure the Detroit Red Wings professional hockey club to the area.

The economic impact of having the Red Wings relocate in Westland would be beneficial not only to this fast-growing community of 103,000 people, but throughout the Western tier of Wayne County as well.

Westland provides an ideal location for fans because it is situated in the middle of a huge triangle bounded by three expressways-I-94, I-696 and I-275.

The area contains about 1½ million people, more than enough of a draw for the likes of an 18,000-seat arena, which would have to be constructed.

Even the financing of the $15 million package, including the arena and parking, should cause no hardship to area residents. Officials say they would finance the project under the Economic Development Corporation (EDC) law passed in 1974.

EDC IS A procedure whereby the city can sell tax-exempt bonds at low-rate interest, but the city would not be held liable for any financial obligation for the debt.

Westland officials, in making a pitch for the Red Wings, offer convincing evidence why such a move would economically benefit the area.

The size of the arena the Red Wings management says it will need would attract national and regional recreational, educational, cultural, and spiritual events, as well as providing a base for community functions to be enjoyed by area residents, retailers, and commercial and industrial firms. And don't forget the potential such a structure would have for national conventions—a Republican or Democratic get-together, perhaps?

The facility would improve the area tax base by providing additional tax dollars. It would definitely stabilize and stimulate the area's economy.

A new Red Wing arena would increase the awareness, image and character of the community and the civic pride of the area.

IT COULD BE expected to generate additional retail sales of existing retailers and commercial firms in the area, as well as attract additional industrial, commercial, residential and recreational development for greater planned growth.

Such a facility also would support the area's church, public and private sectors and numerous sports-oriented programs for the area's youth.

We call upon officials in all the communities in Western Wayne County to get behind Westland's bid. We should let the Red Wings' organization know loud and clear that Western Wayne County is where the Detroit hockey club belongs.

A concerted effort, bolstered by meetings between Red Wing officials and area delegations, as well as residents' letters and council resolutions in support of the hockey club's relocation, could be enough to get the job done.

On the brighter side

'Nice guys finish last...'

JUST WAIT UNTIL next year!

The annual awards of excellence for newspaper writing have been handed out and I have earned a unique distinction. I was the only one not to win an award.

The Christian attitude is not to grumble, fret, worry or covet those journalistic gems. I'll turn the other cheek. Nice guys finish last they say, so I guess that "pegs" me.

I would never, ever complain, but I would just like the opportunity to "set the record straight," editorially speaking.

These are a few of the reasons, (not excuses), for my failure to capture a certificate of excellence in writing. My good friend, Editor Robert What's-his-name, the Bard of Michigan Ave., had a lot to do with my losing out. First of all, he moved my column to a different page each week. Some of the judges never saw it, no doubt, because the day they read through all the myriad of print, their eyeballs exploded by the time they reached section c, page five.

I was neatly nestled, that week, in section D, page 18, next to the obituaries. (Maybe he felt a "moving target" would be harder to hit).

Not only that, Robert-What's-his-name, (and I feel like I'm name-dropping) wouldn't print my picture with my column. I don't have the rugged, handsome features of Peter Waldmeir of the Detroit News or Joe Falls and Jim Fitz-his-name of the Free Press, or even the perfumed wrists of Maureen Rademacher or Erma Bombeck, but my glasses hid half my face.

Had my thumbnail photo accompanied every column of "On The Brighter Side," no compassionate judge could have turned me down.

I can feel sympathetic understanding welling up in your heart even now. Continuing to "get the facts before the reading public," the third alibi, er ah, reason, I failed to win writing honors was because of the proof-reading.

Robert What's-his-name always proof read my column. And he didn't use a blue pencil like most editors — he used a nine-iron, and chipped out some of my classiest clichés. That wasn't bad enough — he sliced them into a sandtrap! He's the only proof reader I know who walks around with a golf putter behind his right ear.

The first time he read my column, he said he was teed off. (And I thought he was referring to golf!).

The column that would have won me the Nobel Prize missed being printed the week of the big blizzard. My roller skates clogged with snow and I missed the deadline. Another article, truly a Pulitzer Prize performance, got wrapped around the garbage. As the garbage truck pulled out of sight, I wondered why the man was holding his nose.

Another theme of mine got loused up when they printed it word-for-word, just like I wrote it. That was the unkindest cut of all!

I feel better now that you have been informed about the fact of "controlled news." I also think... Wait a minute, there's the telephone.

"Hello... Who?... Oh, Robert... Robert who?... Oh yes, Robert What's-his-name! My good friend, I'd recognize that voice anywhere.

You say you have two photos of me and you want to print one with my column? Use the one with the losing smile...!

Ex-Panther speaks up for America

WASHINGTON — Eldridge Cleaver, the former Black Panther leader, was recently asked by Tom Snyder on NBC's Tomorrow Show why so many young people were deceived by propaganda that glorified the Communist countries.

Cleaver, who came home last year after having spent seven years abroad, mainly in Communist countries was really like. He pointed out that those who visited those countries were given the guided tour and generally returned with stars in their eyes. He had had that experience. It was only when he had a chance to live in several Communist countries that he learned what they were really like.

A recent article about Cleaver in the Reader's Digest tells how this one-time fiery revolutionary had his eyes opened by his experiences in Cuba, Algeria and North Korea. He went to Cuba at Castro's invitation after he fled the U.S. to escape prosecution in November, 1968. He found Cuba to be a "model of oppression," not liberation. Contrary to what you may have seen on CBS-TV, the mood of the Cuban people is one of hopelessness and anguish, he reports. He says that he was shocked to find how resentful the Cubans were of the shortages of goods and how they resented the privileges enjoyed by Communist Party members.

Cleaver said, "The main point is that the people have no machinery by which to bring their will to bear upon the decision-making process. It was a sad discovery, but I found it to be so, not just in Cuba, but in all the countries we traveled in which have similar dictatorial governments. The leaders are out for themselves, not for the people. The party will destroy you at the drop of a hat."

Cleaver also learned a lot about the Communist plans to bring down the U.S. and other democratic countries. He warns that they take for granted that they can count on certain elements inside the U.S. to help bring this about as the military balance shifts against us and as we are increasingly isolated.

It took Cleaver seven years of exile to learn that democracy is better than dictatorship and that it is now in great danger. Cleaver now believes that it is important for ourselves and for all humanity that the U.S. be prepared to defend itself from the attack.

There are a lot of people in this country who have yet to learn this lesson. Not all of them are young, but the question Mr. Snyder put to Cleaver is an important one. Why are so many young people deceived by Communist propaganda? Why haven't they learned from the experience and observation of others?

One answer is that the communications media have not done a very good job in bringing to the American people information about the Communist countries, how they treat their people, and their plans to bring down the democracies.

This is illustrated by the very slight attention given to Cleaver's experience and warnings. When Cleaver came home last November this was reported on the TV evening news. The event was given 90 to 130 seconds, not enough time for any serious exploration of the lessons he had learned abroad.

Recently NBC had Cleaver on Meet the Press, as well as the Tomorrow Show. For that, they are to be commended. However, what Cleaver had to say has been more than drowned out by the media's great outpouring of praise for Mao Tse-tung. The essence of propaganda is repetition. Cleaver, like Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, has sounded a discordant note. Will his experience, his new-found appreciation of his native land be conveyed throughout the land? Will his warning be heard? It is up to the media.

Belleville resident predicts its demise

Days of network television numbered?

One advertising professor at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti is predicting that the days of commercial network television is numbered.

"We are not going to have an NBC, a CBS and an ABC too much longer," said Edith Phillips, the former advertising manager of Revlon. "We already can set up instantaneous networks using cables with microwaves. And here, we've got satellites floating around upstairs; with cable TV, satellites and microwave systems, there's no need for the networks."

Miss Phillips, a Belleville resident, bases her predictions on information she brought back with her from her recent sabbatical leave, during which she studied the astounding technological advances in communications made possible by optic fibers. As many as 40,000 different telecommunication systems can be packed into a cable, a half inch in diameter using optic fibers, she said.

About 3 lbs. of optic fibers replace 300 lbs. of the traditional copper wiring. And through the use of its laser beam, the quality of the communication is much improved over the traditional methods, she added.

Optic fibers now are being used successfully in Japan for educational cable TV. Once U.S. government regulations are lifted, allowing development of these new systems to progress full-steam, Americans soon will own 2-way communications systems which will greatly increase their options in entertainment. Advertisers should begin preparing for the day these systems are as commonplace in the home as the TV is now, Miss Phillips said.

"It's going to be a sad, sad day," she added. "The minute we get 2-way communication systems set up in our homes, the minute we can print and receive anything in our own living rooms, tells you that the days of the networks are limited."

Along with the imminent destruction of network television will come the death of the familiar TV commercial. Miss Phillips said advertisers will have to seek new methods for informing the public to take the place of these traditional means. A logical alternative might be preparing video tapes and discs for free distribution. A separate cable TV channel might be set aside exclusively for advertising-related announcements.

"I see a tremendous need for small boutiques or modular services in every city in the country to help advertisers create advertising or do something that would be on local TV and CATV," she continued. If the viewer misses an advertising message, he will be able to electronically "retrieve" it for viewing at his convenience.

At South Junior High

'Ugliest' teacher chosen by students

Teacher Jack Harris is "officially" the ugliest male teacher at Belleville South Junior High School—according to a student survey taken recently during the Journalism Class-sponsored "Ugly Man" contest.

With the help of yearbook advisor Mrs. Manseau and Mrs. Stadthiller, the budding writers sponsored several money-making activities during the week. All benefits will go for yearbook production costs.

Students voted for their favorite "ugly" male teacher and Harris won going away when the ballots were counted on Friday of that week.

Careful toy choice can prevent injury

Choosing Christmas toys carefully can help prevent injury to children, according to B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture - (MDA).

MDA's Consumer Protection Bureau enforces the toy safety law which is part of Michigan's Hazardous Substances Act, but consumers are the final watchdogs and should be alert when shopping, the director said.

George Whitehead, deputy director of the Consumer Protection Bureau, said: "A thermal, electrical or mechanical toy found to be hazardous by the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission comes under the definition of a banned hazardous substance. It's the department's responsibility to license all manufacturers and distributors and to register all retailers of the toys in the state and keep them advised of those that have been banned."

Printed on discs or tapes, the "new commercials" are likely to take the form of a highly-informative message about the advertiser's products or services, rather than the amusing and entertaining motif now in vogue.

Miss Phillips said tremendous advances in the field of communications will manifest themselves in areas other than broadcasting. Banking, for instance, will be dramatically changed as people begin to make deposits and withdrawals by punching codes on their telephones. This will make the need for cash and check transactions unnecessary, thus significantly reducing robberies of those who used to carry cash, she added.

"Cable TV, with the optic fiber and the 2-way communication system, is going to be something that people will love," she predicted. "It's going to save time. People will no longer have to carry cash—it's going to drive the criminal batty... The police will have very little to do when this system is enacted."

Miss Phillips, a graduate of Ohio State University, is no newcomer to the ad game. After her tenure with Charles Revson at Revlon, she went on to become the sales promotional director for Avon. A native of Keota, Colo., she still owns and operates a Hereford Cattle ranch there. The conservative-looking associate professor said she loves fast horses, fast cars and fast planes. She is an avid flyer and enters several airplane races a year.

"I'm not calling television broadcasting any more," she said. "I'm calling it 'narrowcasting.' Each individual will have his own way of getting a network system that he wants."

"It will be an international thing. People will be able to tune into France, Japan, Russia, Germany, England. The satellites are going to bring us international communication systems."

Programming in this new era will be predominated by various forms of entertainment, but viewers will be able to choose other kinds of shows on 53 channels. The viewer who misses a program will be able to "retrieve" it for rebroadcast, or "renarrowcast". Choices here might include reading yesterday's newspapers and studying math.

"Anything you want to do, you can do," she said.

Miss Phillips, who admits she is a dreamer, also predicts that optic fiber technology will allow for communication with civilizations on other planets. She says that crime will disappear along with drugs, and that the peoples of the world will adopt a new spirit of togetherness.

"I feel that I am living in the most exciting, stimulating, glorious time in the history of the earth. The possibilities are what dreams are made of and I'm so glad I'm not missing it," she concluded. "There's never been anything before like what we have today."

"I think that we have the brains, I think we have the will, I think we have the endeavor and I think that we have the people that are going to change things. And it will all be for the better."

'We gather together'—holiday theme

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

The holidays are always a good source for social news and Thanksgiving seems to be "the" holiday anymore when families are together and not off to warmer climes as is the case with the more lengthy Christmas and Easter seasons.

Turkey seemed to be the unanimous entree when we talked with area cooks last Wednesday in a our pre-Thanksgiving round-up of column news.

Among those staying at home in order to play host to relatives were Bill and Peggy Chizmar of Harmony Lane. They and their two children, Billy and

Proceeds for park

Arlene Smith (right) of the Women's Study Club of Belleville and Shariene Tator of the Junior Study Club, each of whom is chairman of community improvement for their respective organization, gear up for a drive for funds to complete development of Horizon Park along the lakeshore in Belleville. They are promoting the sale of tickets for "Christmas Cash" at 25 cents each or five for $1, the drawing for the first prize of $100 and second prize of $50 to take place at the conclusion of the traditional Christmas parade in Belleville on Dec. 18. Both clubs have elected to continue active support of the park project during their current 2-year administrations hoping to complete work on the bank, watering system and landscaping. Tickets are available from members of both clubs or at Hamilton Hardware on Main Street.

Becky, welcomed Peg's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Dresselhouse, and her son and his girlfriend, Bob Dresselhouse and Sherry Earhart, as well as Sherry's mother, Mrs. Nola Earhart and her guest, all from Northville. Also at the three o'clock feast was Bill's sister, Elaine Brier of Mt. Pleasant.

Another local host and hostess were the Taft Barnetts of Harris Road who carved their turkey at 1:30 in the afternoon. Joining them for the festive occasion were their children: Mike and Vicki Barnett with Connie and Michael of Ryznar Drive; Judy and Fred Stafford with Leslie and David of Wayne; Jerry and Pat Barnett and sons, Greg and Jeff, of Lincoln Park; and Tim Barnett of Romulus.

While her parents, the Mike Barnetts, were dining in Belleville, almost-8-year-old Tytti Barnett was enjoying being the youngest member of the clan at a family dinner in Cleveland, Ohio.

With her grandparents, John and Marge Roberts of Lake Pointe Pass, she drove to the home of John's sister and brother-in-law, Anne and Earl Blewitt the day before the holiday and then joined the special celebration on the big day. That day not only was Thanksgiving but the 92nd birthday of Tytti's great-grandmother, Mrs. Ida Mae Roberts, who had been a Thanksgiving baby on Nov. 25, 1884.

Others adding their do-re-mi's to a chorus of "Happy Birthday" were the Blewitt's daughter and son-in-law, Beth and Bruce Hutton, and their two sons, Doug and Craig Blewitt, all of Cleveland.

Weather permitting, the Robertses hoped to return home via Niagara Falls so that Tytti could have her first look at the phenomenon.

Others invited out of town for turkey day were Bob and Millie Baker of Clarence Street who were up bright and early for their drive to Leslie. Their daughter and son-in-law, Joan and Tom Vicary, not only had Thanksgiving dinner on their calendar but an early breakfast so that Bob and Nina Baker and their daughter, Natasha, of Saginaw could be with the family for at least part of the day.

For 3:00 dinner they were joined by Tom's parents and grandmother, the Ward Vicarys and Mrs. Ward Vicary Sr. all of Leslie.

Belleville Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson were invited to spend the holiday with his sister and brother-in-law, Margaret and Bernard Bird of Hannan Road.

Other members of the family sharing the feast were Terry and Carol Bird and their two children from Romulus and Jim and Peggy Bird of Holland. Ron and Lennie Bird and their two children came in from Plymouth later in the day to enjoy dessert with the group.

George and Maxine Heifner of Edison Lake Road decided to see what the weather is like in southern Tennessee at Thanksgiving time, hoping to get in a little golf over the weekend. With their son, Terry Duane, and George's dad, G. A. Heifner, they left Wednesday for their second home in Cleveland, Tenn. where Maxine's parents, the Jack Turtles of Lincoln Park, are spending the winter months.

Leaving Wednesday evening for the same destination were David Duane, his fiancée Judy Frydrych, and Debbie Duane.

Thanksgiving at the Trenton home of Dick and Grace Sietz not only marked the holiday but the 10th wedding anniversary of the couple who were married Thanksgiving Eve in 1966. Sharing in the dual celebration were their two children, Whitney and Brad; Dick's parents, the Joseph Sietzs of Sumpter Road, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mary Ann and Bill Emerson and their two youngsters, Billy and Betsy of Martinsville Road.

Members of Grace's family attending were her parents, the Tony Pernas of Warren and her sister, Lucy Buckley and family of Sterling Heights.

The following Saturday the Sietz clan (the six adults, sans kiddies) did the anniversary up Orientally with dinner at Lim's of Farmington.

The Eicholds — Larry, Bev, Kim, Debbie and Jeff — traveled from their home on Lenmore Drive to Hamburg to fill an invitation issued by Bev's sister and brother-in-law, Nancy and Frank Peters, for turkey dinner. Others seated at their table were their parents, Carroll and Geraldine Adler of Leslie, and a brother, Larry Adler, his wife Pat, and their two children, Mark and Mary, from Byron.

Following a tradition of some 25 years standing, the Bert Smiths and daughter, Carol, sat down to 1:00 dinner with members of his family at the home of Mrs. Alonzo Smith Sr. of Willis.

Their daughter and son-in-law, Luanne and Pete Schonfeld, drove in from Evanston, Ill. for the get-together joining Sue Smith who was home from her sophomore classes at Western Michigan University.

Other members of the family sharing in the cooperative dinner were from Chelsea, Milan, Willis and Ypsilanti.

Four o'clock dinner in Ann Arbor was on the agenda Thanksgiving Day for Bill and Flo Hudge and daughters, Judy and Cindy, of Elwell Road. They sat down to dinner at the home of Ed and Mary Anne Hudge whose guests included her brother, Michael, his wife Betty, and their three children from Trenton and their aunt, Sylvia Ososkie of Wyandotte.

The Lions football game Thanksgiving Day followed the turkey dinner prepared by Joan Johnson of Belleville Road. With her husband, Dusty, she entertained 12 guests including her sister and brother-in-law, Janet and Kenn Burger, who drove in from South Bend, Ind. for the week-end.

Others arriving from out-of-town were the women's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vernier of Redford; another sister, Jill Hennessy, and her husband, Robb, of Madison Heights; and their aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scheider and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Burns of Farmington and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vernier of Redford.

Taylor teachers exchange vows at Church of Christ

Double ring vows were solemnized between Margo Kay Frank of Taylor and Eugene Phillip Charette of Belleville during a recent ceremony at St. Paul United Church of Christ in Taylor.

The candlelight rite at 7 p.m. was conducted by The Rev. Leonard F. Weigel and The Rev. Chet Warren before an altar graced with bouquets of white gladiolas and carnations. Other decorative appointments: white bows, candles, carnations and ivy were used as pew markers.

Organist for the wedding, Mrs. Wilma Quiel, accompanied Charles Fickeau who sang "The Wedding Song," "Sometimes," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Frank of 10381 Pardee Rd., Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Charette of 18824 Savage Rd., Belleville.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the bride carried a cascade of gardenias, yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy. For her wedding day she chose to wear an ivory silk organza gown styled with a Victorian neckline, elbow-length sleeves edged with ruffles and a bodice enhanced with Venetian lace. The lace motif was repeated on the hemline which extended into a chapel-length train.

A camelot cap of Venetian lace held her 3-tiered silk illusion veil which was dotted with lace appliques and cut in mid-back length.

As her cousin's matron of honor, Mrs. George Purcell of Southgate wore a halter dress of seafoam chiffon designed in toe-touching length with a tiered skirt, scoop neckline and elbow-length capelet.

Bridesmaids in identical gowns were Mrs. David Brownlee of Belleville and Sandra Woodcock of Taylor. All three held nosegays of mixed garden flowers.

Five-year old Jennifer Wackro, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wackro, was flowergirl at her cousin's wedding. Her little frock was a miniature of the senior attendants' dresses.

Ringbearer was David Charette, the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Charette of Whittemore and a nephew of the bridegroom.

The duties of best man were filled by Richard Vargo of New Boston. Groomsmen were David Brownlee of Belleville and Larry Schmoekel of Taylor, the bride's cousin.

Ushers were Dennis Schmoekel of Taylor, cousin of the bride, and Leonard Charette of Ann Arbor, brother of the bridegroom.

At the reception held in Fairlane Manor of Dearborn, the bride's mother greeted guests in an apricot chiffon gown with a companion jacket while Mrs. Charette, the bridegroom's mother, donned a turquoise lace jacket ensemble. Both were presented with orchids.

After a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Ont., the young couple took up residence at 36765 Huron River Dr., New Boston.

The newlyweds, graduates of Eastern Michigan University, teach in the Taylor School System.

The Emerald Room at the Airport Hotel at Detroit Metro Airport was reserved for the rehearsal party hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE P. CHARETTE

Geraldine Grieve appointed Area Association chairman

Mrs. Geraldine Grieve of 14144 Hannan Rd. Romulus, has been appointed Southern Wayne Area Association chairman, it has been announced by Huron Valley Girl Scout Council President Mrs. Frances Bauer of Plymouth.

In this volunteer position, Mrs. Grieve will be responsible for the promotion of Girl Scouting in portions of Wayne and Monroe counties including Belleville, Romulus, New Boston, Willow, Waltz, Flat Rock, Carleton, Newport, Monroe, Maybee, Dundee and Petersburg. There are presently some 1,400 Girl Scouts in 83 troops and 284 adult volunteers in this area.

A veteran of nine years in scouting, Mrs. Grieve has functioned as a troop committee mother, Brownie leader, Junior leader, and currently is a Cadette leader and serves as Troop Services Director for the Haggerty, Mt.

Pleasant, and North Schools. Her other areas of activity include working as a volunteer probation officer in the 34th District Court and supporting the Haggerty School PTO program.

As a professional registered nurse, she instructs the Nurse Assistant Co-Op Program at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton. She also teaches the nursing program offered in the Huron Adult Education Program and instructs American Red Cross first aid.

Former area association chairman, Mrs. LaVerne McGee of Romulus, stated, "Gerry's dedication to Girl Scouting and her leadership abilities should aid her in doing an excellent job in this post, and I wish her success in her undertakings."

When asked about her aims in accepting this position, Mrs. Grieve stated, "Each and every registered adult and girl over 14 years old are members of the association. My job now is to unite these people and function as a harmonious unit to continually improve Girl Scouting and to pursue community interaction with our troops. My experience with girls and adults on a local level has shown me how well people can work together when they want to achieve a certain goal. I'd like to see the same thing happen area wide."

The Southern Wayne Area Association has many activities in progress. A Recognition Day is being organized and will be held at Wayne Metro Place Mall in early March. Delegates will soon be elected to attend the annual council meeting in the spring, and sweatshirts and tee shirts are currently being designed to be worn by area girls and adults.

There are many additional interesting items on the agenda for the next meeting which is to be held Jan. 20, 1977, at 7 p.m. in the Romulus City Hall Community Room on Wayne Road at Goddard. Mrs. Grieve cordially invites all area members to attend, bring a "dime and a doughnut", and join in the effort to move Girl Scouting forward.

Over past 50 years

Nine men helped shape BHS Band

In commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the Belleville High School Bands, the Belleville Band Boosters are collecting information and photographs on the instrumental groups over the past half century.

Richard Coffelt, who was the high school band director for nine years, from 1948-1957, and junior high band director for 14 years, from 1957 to 1971, compiled a directory of those who were responsible for setting the fine standard of music which the current organization continues to provide.

Instrumental music directors in the Van Buren Public Schools over the past 50 years began with Nicholas Falcone who organized the band in 1926 and then directed the group for three years. Rufus L. Bird then stepped in and wielded the baton for 17 years, from 1929 to 1946.

He was followed by J. Ross Slabaugh, 1946-48; Richard Coffelt, 1948-57; Donald Mattran, 1957-61; Edward Downing, 1961-68; Leroy Lane, 1968-69; Greg Hever, 1969-73; Dennis Miller is the current director.

Those holding the post when the junior high schools were opened were Richard Coffelt, 1957-71, and Myles Mazer, 1971-74, at North and South Junior Highs; Frank Soloc, 1974-76 at South with David De Clark *currently at the helm at both junior highs.

Grade school band directors have been David Thomas from 1955-59 and Donovan Hanson from 1959-61. Al Falatine is the current instructor.

In 1948, two years after the death of Rufus L. Bird, a scholarship in his name was established to honor his 17 years as director of the complete music department — both instrumental and vocal.

The first Rufus L. Bird Award to an outstanding band student went to Paul Dygert, percussion, in 1948. Carol Roeser, bassoon, violin and piano, was acknowledged in 1949; Marian Deering, percussion, in 1950; Carol Roeser, bassoon, 1951; Francis Buckwith, flute, 1952; Barbara Mollar, flute, 1953; Valera Haft, clarinet, 1954; and Cynthia Sietz, clarinet, 1956.

The award in 1957 went to Dorothy Baldwin, flute. In 1958 Quentin Woormer, trombone, and Sandra Negi, percussion, shared the honor.

Diane Mattson, clarinet, won in 1959; Rosalie Bird, cornet, and Gerald Anderson, clarinet, 1960; Frank Stranyk Jr., percussion, 1961; Alice Kurtz, cornet, 1962; Nancy Boone, oboe and Karen Wall, French horn, 1963; and Tamar Nickell, baritone, and Pat Schaal, percussion, 1964.

Donna Gonyaw, clarinet, and Sharon Harvey, oboe, were twin winners in 1965 as were Betty Brooks and Suzanne Harris, both clarinet, in 1966. Patricia Gonyaw, cornet, received the award in 1967; Pamela Cobb, clarinet, and Dwight Patalocco, saxophone, 1968; and William Villa, percussion, 1969.

This decade's recipients have been Gary Vaughn, cornet, 1970; Donald Haydon, percussion, 1971; Eileen Heath, bassoon, 1972; Keith Hubbs, French horn, 1973; Beverly Freysinger, clarinet, 1974, and Keith Green, French horn, and Margo Brown, flute, 1976.

For perfect pork

For a perfect pork loin roast — tender, juicy and delicious — follow these rules: 1. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. 2. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part, making certain it does not rest on fat or bone. 3. Do not add water. 4. Do not cover. 5. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees F. which is well done.

Christmas tree can be plant for all seasons

Your Christmas tree can be a plant for all seasons if you buy a living tree rather than a cut one. Small Scotch pine, white or blue spruce, Douglas fir or white pine make good living Christmas trees, suggests forestry specialist, Mel Koelling.

Because a tree should have 6 to 9 inches of burlapped root ball for every inch of trunk diameter, Koelling advises getting a small tree for indoor use. "Smaller trees with smaller root balls are much easier to handle than large ones," he pointed out.

Keeping your tree alive requires some special handling, he noted.

"Place the root ball in a container with a drainage hole and a pan underneath so you can water it easily," he advised. "Give the tree a day or two outside in a cool porch, garage or breezeway before you take it indoors to minimize the shock from the change in environment."

Once indoors, place the tree in a cool spot away from direct sunlight, hot air registers, radiators, fireplaces or appliances that give off heat, he suggested. If exposed to heat, the tree will dry out more rapidly and may break dormancy. Make sure to keep the root ball moist by regular watering. In addition, occasional misting of the foliage will help keep it fresh.

Keep your living tree indoors no longer than five to seven days, Koelling advised. This should provide plenty of holiday enjoyment while keeping the tree healthy enough to be planted outdoors.

When the tree is moved outdoors, keeping it in the garage for a few days before planting will help it make the transition to outdoor conditions.

Select the planting site thoroughly and well ahead of the time you need it, advised Joe Cox, specialist in landscape architecture.

Mulch the chosen spot with a thick layer of straw to keep the ground from freezing. This will make it easier to dig the hole for the tree, and the soil will settle better around the roots, if unfrozen.

"Choose a spot that will provide plenty of room for the tree to grow,"

Cox said. "Avoid places near the house or other buildings or beneath other trees or power lines."

This doesn't mean a spot in the center of your lawn is the best place, Cox pointed out. "A single tree, unrelated to any other tree or landscape feature, looks orphaned and isolated."

Plant the tree in a prepared hole big enough to hold the root ball comfortably. Remove any wires or plastic cords or bags from the root ball and trunk before filling in the hole. If left on, these could strangle the tree as it grows.

Most living Christmas trees come packaged in papier-mache containers, Koelling notes. Break up and remove as much of this as you can, he advised, but don't worry if you can't get it all off. Any paper left on the soil ball should decompose rather quickly.

Lawn, garden chores should not be ignored during holiday season

It's the holiday season, and as if there weren't enough things to do just now, Michigan State University horticulturists suggest the following lawn and garden chores:

— Fertilize only actively growing houseplants and place them in a warm window where they will get as much light as winter weather provides.

— Fertilize Christmas plants periodically if you want to keep them green and healthy for many weeks after Christmas.

— Water Cyclamen plants carefully. The corms are very susceptible to rot, if they get wet.

— A week or so before Christmas, buy flowering plants and cut flowers for decorations and plants you intend to give as gifts. Cover plants well before taking them outdoors to prevent chilling or cold injury.

— Wash the foliage of large-leaved houseplants occasionally to help them breathe better and to improve their appearance. Washing removes dust and oily films that block plant pores and make the leaves look dull.

— Order seed catalogues for next year's garden.

— Clean and sharpen law and garden tools before retiring them for the winter. A light coat of oil will protect against rust.

— Drain gas from lawnmowers, tillers and other gasoline-powered equipment and use up all gas in the system by running the engines until they stop.

— Give the lawn and garden one final cleanup to remove leaves, trash and other debris.

— Mulch strawberry beds, pansies, perennials and roses after the ground has frozen to a depth of three to four inches.

— Remove old canes from blackberries and raspberries.

— Use evergreen boughs or burlap fastened to stakes to shield newly planted evergreens, especially broadleaved evergreens and those exposed to drying winds and sun or salt spray.

— Tie together or support the branches of boxwood and other evergreen shrubs that could be injured by heavy snow.

— Avoid using salt on icy walks and driveways whenever possible.

Salt is toxic to many flowers, trees, shrubs and lawn grasses. Sand, sawdust and urea fertilizer are acceptable non-toxic substitutes. If you do use salt, do not sweep or shovel salted slush onto areas that contain valuable plants.

— Pot bulbs and store in a cool place if you intend to force them into bloom in late winter.

— Keep off of lawn areas when they are soggy or when grass blades are frozen to avoid compacting the soil or injuring the turf.

— Check stored vegetables and bulbs, corms and tubers, and discard any showing signs of decay.

— Keep bird feeders filled with food and provide birds with a supply of drinking water. If you start feeding the birds, don't stop. They come to depend on your feeder and may starve if you stop feeding them.

— Buy your cut Christmas tree. Make a fresh cut across the base of the trunk and set the tree in water in a cool place. Indoors set it well away from any source of heat and keep it well-watered at all times.

Want fresh yule tree? Why not cut it yourself!

The best way to be sure your Christmas tree is fresh is to take axe in hand and cut it down yourself at one of Michigan's many choose-and-cut Christmas tree farms.

The next-best way is to follow a few tips on cut tree selection and care from Michigan State University Extension foresters:

— Look for a well shaped tree with good color. Where you plan to set the tree should determine how tall and perfectly shaped it must be. A tree for use in front of a picture window, where it will be seen from all sides, must be shaped better than one to be set in a corner.

— Check for freshness by bending a needle on the tree. If it springs back to its original shape, the tree is fresh. If it snaps or stays bent out of shape, the tree is probably too dry.

— Bump the base of the tree on the ground. A shower of dry, green needles around your feet means the tree is dry.

— Feel the bottom of the tree trunk. On a fresh tree, it will feel sticky and moist.

— When you get your tree home, cut a half-inch slice off the base of the trunk. Removing this resin-clogged wood improves the tree's ability to take up water and so slows drying.

— Place the tree in a stand that has a container for water. Because the tree will absorb water very rapidly for the first few days, you may have to water it two or three times a day to insure that it has a steady supply of moisture. Do not allow the tree to dry out. It is nearly impossible for a fresh tree to ignite and burn, but dry evergreens are extremely quick to catch fire.

Commercial Christmas tree preservatives are of little value in maintaining freshness and reducing dryness.

Michigan State horticulturists have answers

This month Michigan State University horticulturists will answer timely questions on houseplants and related topics for the holiday season.

Q. I'm going to visit relatives for a couple weeks at Christmas and I can't find a plant-sitter. How can I make sure my plants will be OK while I'm gone?

A. Group plants together to raise the humidity level around them. Place them out of direct sun or bright light so they will grow more slowly and use less water than usual. Do not put them in a dark corner.

Tears: Our Natural Safety Valve
At the loss of a loved one, the most natural release for one's emotions is an expression of grief: crying. Tears are therapeutic in more ways than many of us may realize. They give us an emotional outlet and provide us with an immediate and natural physical action we can perform: one that occupies our being completely.

An emotional outlet
Getting it all out—letting all of the building and pent-up feelings of grief explode in a burst of tears—may be one of the most effective ways of coming to grips with the immediate situation following the death of a loved one. At the realization that the loved one is gone, tears may come easily for both adult and child. And this is good. Children may even be encouraged to let out their feelings of grief by crying. Most do not need the extra encouragement since it is so natural to weep in sorrow. Yet society has somehow built up barriers and taboos against expressing grief through crying.

Men can cry, too!
There are no laws that restrict men from using this means of expressing their grief. It is not unmasculine to cry at the death of a loved one or a dear friend. Giving expression to grief and sorrow in no way diminishes or compromises an individual's manliness.

It is a misconception that "big boys" shouldn't cry...a carry-over from childhood chidings of "Don't cry. It doesn't hurt that much." Recent generations have been raised in the old school of "the stiff upper lip" and "grin and bear it." But if there is a hurt, then the pain should be recognized and duly noted in this case, through tears. After all, that's what tears are all about!

Your questions and comments on these subjects and others to follow are most welcome—in private or publicly through this column.

'The Lion in Winter' is fare at Hilberry

James Goldman's "The Lion in Winter" will officially join the repertory of Wayne State University's Hilberry Theatre at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 15, following previews Dec. 10 and 11.

The "Lion" of Goldman's title is Henry II, King of England. The time is Christmas 1183, and the royal family has gathered to celebrate the holidays. For the reunion, Henry has temporarily released Eleanor, his captive queen, from her English dungeon at Salisbury. Their three conniving sons also have joined the family gathering to plot for Henry's crown.

Using a 20th century form of high comedy, Goldman takes these historical figures and expresses their verbal battles in the harsh language of our ruthless modern age.

Arthur Knight said of Goldman's script, "The language he has devised for his characters is at once salty, cynical, pointed and poetic, a blending that sounds fresh to our ears yet not inappropriate for the period." Walter Kerr wrote: "(Mr.) Goldman has deftly and unobtrusively solved that age-old problem of what to do about period dialogue."

In 1968, Goldman received the Oscar, the American Screenwriters Award, and the British Screenwriters Award for his screenplay of "The Lion in Winter".

Appearing in the Hilberry production are Michel Cullen as Henry, Harper Jane McAdoo as Eleanor, Michael Tylo, Bruce Matley and Michael Rothhaar as their sons, Douglas McBride as King Philip of France, and Monique Morgan as his sister Alais.

Robert T. Hazzard directed the production, with scenery by Greg Roehrick, costumes by Daniel Thomas Field and Helen Markovitch, and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

Complete schedule and ticket information for the Hilberry repertory is available from the box office at 577-2972. Tickets may be purchased at the box office located at the corner of Cass and Hancock.

Lion's roar

Harper Jane McAdoo as Eleanor of Aquitaine and Michael Cullen as Henry II rehearse a scene from the Hilberry Theatre's coming production of James Goldman's "The Lion in Winter". The comedy officially joins the Hilberry Theatre's season at 8:30 p.m. Dec.

15, following previews Dec. 10 and 11. It will remain in the theatre schedule through March 18, 1977. Tickets and schedule information are available at the theatre box office, located at Cass and Hancock or by calling 577-2972.

Timko heads EMU broadcasting

Whenever you tune in WEMU at 88.1 on your FM dial, from the 12 p.m. sign-on to the 1 a.m. sign-off, the presence of Art Timko is behind what you are hearing.

The 30-year-old Belleville resident is program director for the campus radio station at Eastern Michigan University, and as such, it's his job to decide what is broadcast and when. He develops local programming, plans a program schedule, assigns personnel and generally oversees the day-to-day operations at the station, which is located on the top floor of King Hall — the best view on campus," according to Timko.

Much of the nuts-and-bolts work at WEMU is done by Eastern students, since between 17 and 28 students will be employed part time by the station at any given time, compared to three full time employees.

At present, WEMU is a 10-watt station whose signal can be received within a radius of approximately seven to 10 miles of its antenna atop Pierce Hall. But the station has had an application for a power increase on file with the Federal Communications Commission since 1971, and Timko has reason to believe that it finally may be approved within the next few months.

If so, WEMU would broadcast at 15,600 watts in three directions and at 500 watts toward Detroit to the east. The problem which has delayed the application is that for WEMU to increase its power, two other stations in this area must change their frequencies so as not to interfere with the signal.

By comparison, the University of Michigan campus station, WUOM, broadcasts at 240,000 watts.

While WEMU might lack strong broadcasting power, the employees there certainly can't complain about their facilities, the quality of which reportedly tops a number of commercial stations in the state. The station operates under the auspices of Vice-President for University Relations Gary Hawks' office.

Timko, who received both his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees from Eastern, holds forth in a domain which includes two studios, two control rooms, a newsroom and some 12,000 record albums covering a wide spectrum of musical tastes.

Although the facilities are top-notch, Timko feels the station must achieve an "identity of its own," independent of the four other public stations and 47 commercial stations available to the Ypsilanti listening audience. He presently is developing a new musical format for the station.

ART TIMKO

The news format will remain much the same, however, with local coverage focusing on the university, Ypsilanti city government and Ypsilanti Township government. Timko stresses that while WEMU is funded by the university, its news coverage will continue to be vigorously objective.

"One thing we really pride ourselves on is objectivity," he said. "We have not been censored. We've not been told that we can't cover something." Vice-President Hawks has been 100 percent supportive of the station in that respect. We have gotten criticism on some of the stories we've done, but not from Vice-President Hawks."

Timko noted that maintaining objectivity in WEMU's news reporting is vital for the station to gain credibility.

"If we were only to pump out propaganda for Eastern Michigan University, I honestly don't think we'd be worth much," he said.

WEMU operates 13 hours a day, seven days a week, and Timko points out that the station will observe its 11th birthday on Dec. 8.

A former staff sergeant with the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division and a Vietnam veteran, Timko was named last year as one of the Outstanding Young Men in America—"one of a select bookful of people so honored," he laughed. He enjoys gardening and tinkering with automobiles in his free time.

Tastes good

In order to understand metric cooking a little better, the eighth grade home economics class at Belleville South Junior High School prepared a meal that took three days to complete. The first day, each kitchen demonstrated how to measure for its particular recipe. Basic preparations were made the second day and final preparations were completed on the third day, along with the serving of the meal which consisted of baking powder biscuits, molded cranberry salad, potatoes au gratin, Swedish meatballs and chocolate chip bars. Each kitchen made a different dish and served their offerings together buffet-style. Tasting their newly-measured meal were Cindy Foster (from left), Cindy Rudder, Jill Corrigan and Cheryl Baker, while Janice Carter (background) looks on.

Herb Miller and Daryl Gooden (at right) with assistant coach Bill Hardy. Hardy is also a former Romulus High head football coach. Miller is a junior cornerback while Gooden, a defensive tackle. Both Miller and Gooden played for Hardy while at Romulus.

Tiger grapplers 4th at Bedford

Belleville wrestlers settled for three silver medals at the Bedford Invitational held over the weekend. Coach Gerald Malecek's Tigers also wound up in a two-way tie for fifth place in a field of 14 teams.

Bedford won its own tournament with 239 points. The defending state Class A champs beat their closest opponents, Monroe, by nearly 100 points.

Monroe finished second with 140½, followed by Dundee (129½), Dearborn Heights Annapolis (123½), Belleville and New Boston Huron (109), Taylor Center (67½), Jackson Parkside (66½), Davidson (65½), Melvindale (64), Allen Park (41), Alpena (18), Ann Arbor Pioneer (18), and Dearborn Edsel Ford (17).

"The invitational was a good one and it also showed us how much work we really need to get ready for the season," said Malecek who is entering his third year as the Tigers' head coach.

Belleville's Bob Cook wound up with a silver medal after losing in the finals to Bedford's Bill Salisbury 10-1, in the 191-pound class. That weight class, incidentally, is the newest on the Michigan High School Athletic Association weight scale.

Leon Moore, who was pinned by Dundee's Tom Aquirre in 2:36 lost in the finals of the 178-pound class, while Mark Ford also finished second after losing by a close 4-3 decision to Dundee's Rigel in the 119 category.

Belleville placed third in the heavyweight with Rick Briggs and garnered a pair of fifth places thanks to Stan Johnson (155) and Don Woodby (165) while Joe Justin (112) and Brent Verrot (138) ended up in sixth places for their respective weight classes.

Malecek views the pending Suburban 8 Conference warfare as one in which his team could figure prominently.

"We have a very young team," said Malecek, "but I think we do have some people who could fare well this season in the league."

Malecek also sees Edsel Ford's title in jeopardy. Edsel has been the strong contender in the league and is the defending champ.

"Edsel lost too many of its people off of last year's team," noted Malecek, "and I hear Dearborn has a flock of its letter-winners back, but look for Plymouth Salem to challenge the rest for the championship this year."

Slamer is Sponberg grid award winner

YPSILANTI—Al Slamer, former gridiron standout at Wayne Memorial, was the recipient of the Harold E. Sponberg Award at the Eastern Michigan University Football Banquet.

The award is given annually to the Hurons' best down lineman who combines scholastic excellence with athletic achievement.

The junior defensive tackle owns an overall grade point average of 3.15. He is majoring in special education with emphasis on the emotionally impaired student.

During the '76 season, Slamer anchored the Huron defensive line with 45 solo tackles and 37 assisted tackles. The 6-3, 235-pounder has accumulated 95 solo tackles, 97 assists and one interception since arriving on the Ypsilanti campus three years ago.

Glenn to host WW

Wayne favored to retain mat title

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

A field of 12 high school teams have gathered for the season's first big wrestling invitational — the Western Wayne Tournament set for Saturday.

The tournament will be hosted by Westland John Glenn beginning at 11 a.m.

The field will include Wayne Memorial, the defending champ, which has a host of returning lettermen on this year's squad. Westland John Glenn should provide their arch-rivals, plenty of competition. Romulus, Belleville and perennial power Edsel Ford seek to unseat the defending champ.

"Wayne has to be considered the favorite," said Bob Lusk, John Glenn's head wrestling coach. "They won it a year ago and a few times before that."

Glenn has three seasoned wrestlers back off of last year's team that won the Northwest Suburban Conference title. The trio: Jerry Hensley (112-119), Nick Paciocco (119-126) and Mark Grabowski (191 - heavyweight) are strong contenders for gold medals.

Other teams that will be represented at the invitational include Garden City West, Farmington, Dearborn Heights Crestwood, Livonia Bentley, Plymouth Canton, Taylor Center and Taylor Truman.

It will cost fans $1 (adults) and 50 cents (students) to attend the morning session. The price tag will remain the same for the finals scheduled for approximately 8 p.m.

Some of the best wrestlers in the area, if not the state, will be on the mats.

Meanwhile, Glenn will tune up for the invitational with a dual meet scheduled for Thursday 6:30 p.m. at Plymouth Salem.

3rd period spurt helps Spartans bury GC East

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Impressed by his team's 83-63 opening night victory over Garden City East, Cherry Hill's veteran coach Coach Dick McNally is quick to point out "that we're contenders for the Tri-River Conference title."

"I figure that Schafer — a team that beat us twice by close margins a year ago — is the pre-season favorite," McNally said, "but, I also feel that we're going to be in the thick of it this year."

The Spartans were a .500 club (7-7) in the league a year ago.

Schafer appears to be the heir-apparent to Garden City West's league throne. West, without its prolific scorer in the lineup, has dropped two unimpressive games thus far. Niles has been recruited by the University of Detroit and is playing freshman ball for the Titans this year.

East, stripped of its five regulars of a year ago because of graduation, rallied from an early 6-2 deficit to take a 23-16 first period lead against the visiting Spartans. But Cherry Hill worked its way back into the lead, outscoring the Panthers 19-11 in the second period.

Cherry Hill took command in the third period when it outscored its Striking up a pretty pose for the photographer are Jody Garbus (from left), Rhonda Discher, Colleen Rehahn and Daena Noel who teamed up to win the gold medal in the 200-yard medley relay at the Northwest Suburban Swim Conference. The victory also provided the foursome with all-league recognition. Miss Garbus, who won the 100-yard breaststroke event in 1:16.6, was selected as all-league in that event as well. The winning time for the 200-medley was a respectable 2:09.5.

Former area prep gridders key WSU's record season

Wayne State University has finished its season with a win with an 8-2 record, equaling the win production of the 8-3 1975 season for best mark ever in Tartar history, for a second place finish in the Great Lakes Conference — and a host of western Wayne players contributed more than their share to the record.

Leading the way was senior kicker Bill Kelley from Westland John Glenn, who holds the all-time WSU record of 93 kicking points (60 of 70) extra points and 11 (of 21) field goals, good for sixth place on the all-time scoring list. His one-season marks are also new Wayne records:

46 points, 28 conversions and 23 consecutive successful kicks.

Another WSU star is junior split end Dean Morrison of Westland, a Livonia Franklin grad. Morrison tops the '76 team in receptions with 30 grabs for 471 yards, a WSU record, and 64 career receptions. He rates third on the all-time list behind Terry Fuller, who caught 67 passes in 1969-71 and Jim Johnson, who had 66 grabs; he should pass both early next year. His 1146 career yards make his first 1000-yard receiver in team history.

Senior co-captain Keith Anleitner, a linebacker from Garden City East, led the team with 75 primary tackles and was also tops in interceptions.

Randy Epley, junior offensive back from Westland, a Livonia Franklin grad, was second to Anleitner in primary tackles with 73 and topped the team in first assists with 62. Two fumble recoveries and a key interception by Epley in the Evansville game proved major factors in the Tartar win.

Other important factors in the Tartar season were junior right tackle Bob Dometsch from Livonia Stevenson, a very consistent player; junior strong safety Terry Johnson from Westland John Glenn; and offensive back Dan Quinn of Westland, from Livonia Franklin, who was sidelined in the Youngstown game with a knee injury after starting seven of the first eight.

Four freshmen played on the junior varsity team and hope for action next year. They are tight end Don Gotham of Plymouth from Wayne Memorial, offensive guard Scott Mapes of Westland from Livonia Franklin, center Chuck Squires from Westland John Glenn and wide corner Larry Urban from Livonia Franklin.

Wayne awaits Fordson

Zebras rip GC West in opener

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Usually "big games" come at the end of the season when titles are determined.

But, neither Wayne Memorial's Bill Hawley nor Fordson's John McIntyre are overlooking the importance of Friday's Great Lakes 8 Conference confrontation between the two arch basketball rivals.

Wayne will host the first round contest which brings the curtains up on the league season.

"Fordson has always been a key rival for us," said Hawley "and, needless to say, both of us would like to launch our league seasons with a victory."

Though Monroe, ranked among the best in the state last year, went undefeated a year ago to capture the conference championship, coaches feel that Taylor Center is the team to beat, with Wayne and Fordson pushing the Rams for the title.

Wayne opened up the 1976-77 campaign with an impressive 71-44 victory over out-of-the-league rival, Garden City West. Whether it was first night jitters or the absence of prolific scorer Dave Niles, West couldn't "buy a bucket" until the second quarter.

Niles, an all-stater, was the league's leading scorer last year. Coach Chris Babler's Tigers missed on their first 13 shots and Wayne took advantage, building up a 14-4 first period and a 31-17 halftime margin. At one point Hawley's Zebras enjoyed a 31-point lead.

Though senior Mike Singleton was the only Wayne player to score in double figures, all 12 Zebras found their way into the scoring column.

Singleton, who shifts from the guard to the forward slot with relative ease, led all scorers with 18 points, hitting on four from the field and picking up 10 of 14 free throws. He also was the top rebounder, grabbing 10.

"We played extremely well the first period," Hawley said, "then sort of slacked off and coasted in the second half. It was a good opener for us."

Holiday basketball tourney date set

Belleville, the defending champ, will clash with Wayne Memorial in the nightcap of the 1976 Christmas Holiday Basketball Tournament, set for Dec. 22-23.

With the exception of one game, all games will be played at Belleville High. The exception, the junior varsity game between Cherry Hill and Westland John Glenn, has been shifted to Cherry Hill High at 1 p.m. "The reason for the switch," said Harry Hidenfelter, Belleville High Athletic Director, "is that our school gym will be in use at that time."

The varsity games — all scheduled for Belleville High — start off with Cherry Hill and John Glenn (6:30 p.m.) and Wayne and Belleville at 8 p.m. Both games will be played Dec. 22.

On Thurs., Dec. 23, the losers clash at 6:30 p.m. and the championship will be decided at 8 p.m.

After the 1 p.m. (Dec. 22) junior varsity game between Cherry Hill and Glenn at Cherry Hill, the scene will shift to Belleville for a 3 p.m. game between Wayne Memorial and Belleville.

All junior varsity games will be played at Belleville the second day, (Dec. 23) with the two losers leading off the afternoon at 1 p.m., and the championship at 3 p.m.

Glenn gals finish 2nd at conference swim meet

Though North Farmington continued its monopoly on the Northwest Suburban Conference girls' swimming championship, Westland John Glenn is gaining on the perennial champ.

North parlayed eight first places into 361 points and the league title, while the Westlanders took two firsts and were runners-up with 319 points. Finishing third were the gals from Livonia Franklin (240) while Thurston had 107 points and was fourth. Garden City East, the fifth member of the league, didn't field a team.

"I felt we did exceptionally well," said Glenn Coach Jean Garbus. "This is the closest we have ever come to North. Our girls swam superb."

Westland won the opening 200-yard medley relay with the quartet of Rhonda Discher, Jody Garbus, Daena Noel and Colleen Rehahn who turned in a winning 2:09.5 performance. North was second in 2:12.2.

Glenn also claimed a gold medal in the 200-yard breaststroke where Mrs. Garbus's daughter, Jody, led Franklin's Ruth Weedman to the finish.

Miss Garbus's time was 1:16.8. All three Glenn divers - Kathy Mahakian, Sherry Smiley and Joan Bondy qualified for the Class A regional diving meet which was held earlier in the week at Livonia Churchill.

Glenn's winning 200-medley relay team as well as Miss Garbus for her performance in the 100-yard breaststroke were named to the all-conference team.

Belated honor

Patrick Lindsay is a tennis player with a cause. Ever since the Westland Parks and Recreation's tennis tournament, held - would you believe last August - he's been trying to get recognition for his second place finish.

However, there was no confirmation of Lindsay's accomplishment from the rec. department. That is until this week when the recreation department replied belatedly to our plea.

"There was an omission in the results," the reply reads, "of the Westland Parks and Recreation Tennis Tournament held Aug. 27-29. Patrick Lindsay should have been included in the release as receiving a second place trophy in the 15-year-old and under category."

There you are, Pat. Hope you can paste the story in your scrap book.

Cherry Hill is next for Dolphins

Hoping to keep its undefeated string intact, the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club travels tomorrow evening to Cherry Hill for a Suburban Winter Swim Conference encounter.

The Dolphins, 3-0 for the season, will be winding out the first half of the 1976-77 season against Cherry Hill, which is 1-1.

Cut Your 1976 Federal Income Tax Now...

With a Tax Sheltered Retirement Savings Account at Standard Federal Savings!

Individual Retirement Accounts

An individual Retirement Account (IRA) is a personal tax-sheltered retirement savings plan for people who are not covered by a pension or profit sharing plan. The IRA plan allows you to deposit up to $1,500 annually, or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less, in a tax-sheltered savings account. Your annual deposit is deductible from your gross income when computing your Federal Income Tax and your IRA savings account interest is tax-deferred until you redeem your account.

Any wage earner who is not a participant in a retirement plan may set up an IRA. This includes:

- individuals working for firms that do not have pension or profit sharing plans.
- "new" employees who do not qualify for a pension plan at their place of employment.
- self-employed persons who prefer an IRA to a Keogh plan.
- employees leaving a pension or profit sharing plan can rollover into an IRA account.

How IRA grows compared to normal savings

INTEREST RATE	AFTER 6 YEARS		AFTER 12 YEARS		AFTER 18 YEARS		AFTER 24 YEARS
	IRA	Normal Savings	IRA	Normal Savings	IRA	Normal Savings	IRA	Normal Savings
5 1/4 %	$10,845	$8,134	$25,676	$19,257	$45,956	$34,467	$73,689	$55,267
6 1/4 %	11,347	8,510	28,054	21,040	52,652	39,489	88,870	66,653
7 1/4 %	11,875	8,906	30,697	23,023	60,529	45,396	107,810	80,858

The chart assumes wage earner is in the 25% tax bracket and wants to save $1,500 annually with a deposit in each calendar year. With IRA the full $1,500 (no tax payable) is deposited and the interest accumulates tax sheltered until retirement. Without IRA, the $1,500 pre-tax dollars would be reduced by taxes to a net deposit of $1,125 and all interest accumulations would be taxed during the current tax period.

Keogh Plan

The Keogh plan allows self-employed persons to set aside tax-sheltered dollars up to $7,500 each year, or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less. The amount you set aside is tax deductible and the interest earned is tax-deferred until you retire. Income taxes on both principal and interest are payable only when benefits are withdrawn from your account.

GORDIE DAVIS
Good start

Glenn comes out shooting, wins 2

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Westland John Glenn won only six games last year. And Coach Gordie Davis's Rockets are making sure that they pass that mark early this season.

With impressive victories over Taylor Kennedy (66-51) and Garden City West (87-69), the Westlanders already have stashed away a couple of wins.

"We're going to be better than we were a year ago," Davis said. "I feel we have the potential to be a very exciting team."

David won't get any argument from Chris Babler over at West or from Kennedy. Glenn leaped on West 23-13 in the first period and never looked back.

The Westlanders, led by sophomore Daran Armstrong, held a comfortable 47-38 edge at halftime, exchanged baskets on near equal terms in the third period before breaking it open in the fourth period with a 24-14 wedge.

Armstrong, who is setting the early scoring pace for the Rockets, sank eight of his 10 points in the first period while veteran Scott Wicker drilled in 10 of 16.

Dan Diadum, Glenn's leading scorer last year who missed the playoffs because of an injury, started the season strong as he pumped in 21 points to equal West's Bill Geddes' output and share individual scoring honors.

Wicker finished with 16 points and Armstrong, with 10, was the only other Glenn player in double figures.

A mistake-prone game in the opener, Glenn pulled away from Kennedy by outscoring the Eagles 25-18 in the final period. Glenn held a slim 14-13 margin at the end of the initial period and increased it to 26-23 at half.

The Westlanders outscored their nonleague rivals, 15-10, in the third period before breaking the game open early in the last frame.

Doug Martin provided the Westlanders with 21 points while Diadum and Armstrong split 24 points between them.

Suburban 8 — Land of the giants

Dennis Easley and Narvell Turner and James Thompkins are not around anymore.

The tree cagers led Belleville to its finest basketball season ever in 1975-76 when the Tigers finished 17-4. Now, Coach Tom Niemi is looking for replacements.

"We're small again this year," pointed out Niemi who launched his fourth season as head coach Tuesday night against Ypsilanti, a team that knocked the Tigers out of the playoffs a year ago.

"However, our speed and jumping ability I feel will make up for nay deficiencies we have in height.

"I also feel that we will have depth in the low post positions with McArthur (Lance) and Cicotte (Greg)," Niemi continued.

Niemi has two regulars back off of last year's team that finished second to Plymouth Salem in the Suburban 8 Conference title race. The two, Kevin Barnes, a 6-0, 185-pound senior, and Cornell Grantham, 6-0, 160-pound guard will form the nucleus of the team.

Niemi will probably insert into his starting lineup with Roy Rutherford, a rugged 6-3, 210-pound center who was an all-conference grinder and Kelvin Patterson, an excellent sophomore prospect who also completed a successful football season. Patterson's a 6-1, 185 forward.

Teaming with Barnes in the backcourt will be Harold Dennis, a 5-8, 135-pound senior who is an exciting play-maker.

Other prospects include Tim Grantham, a 5-7, 140 pound guard; Ron Johnson, a 5-9, senior and Herbert Burrus, a sophomore.

The Tigers will get their first look at Allen Park Friday night when the two teams open the league campaign. Niemi figures that Salem, which has owned the title the past two years, will have a lot of problems defending it from the likes of Trenton and Livonia Bentley.

Trenton is extremely tall this year," Niemi said. They can go 6-7 (Mark Granvel), 6-6 (Mark Welch) and 6-5 (Tom Trosien) in the front if they want. Livonia Bentley also has an exchange student from West Germany, (Flo Homm) who is 6-6 and 205 which everybody is praising."

Niemi pointed out that Dearborn also has a fair share of returning lettermen, "so this league is going to be very interesting to watch this season," he added.

TOM NIEMI
Big problem

Will 9-day delay hurt Romulus cage season?

It took a group of concerned citizens and the booster clubs to raise enough money so that Romulus High can field a basketball team, but the fact remains that Coach Jesse Meriweather and his Eagles lost nine days.

During those nine days the cagers sweated it out waiting for the decision about their future.

"We have the money now, thanks to all of these people," Meriweather said. "We're going to play, but we had a week layoff and didn't practice until they decided about how to get enough money."

Meriweather said the money was raised "through a successful Thanksgiving raffle, a couple of dances but, as yet, "we still lack some of the funds."

"We're talking to members of the business community in hopes of raising the rest of the cash," he said.

Romulus will go into the season with two regulars off of last year's squad which posted a 13-8 record. The two, Allen Lewis, a 5-11 senior guard, and Wendell Buckley, a 6-2 senior forward have at least two years of varsity experience behind them.

The Eagles will definitely miss All-Area guard Michael Morrison, who was the team's leading scorer and play-maker a year ago.

Meriweather, who is in his third year as head coach, kept his players in shape during the summer in the prestigious St. Cecilia League (Detroit).

From his observations, the Romulus mentor feels that he has a good supply of talent on this year's team. Larry Horne, who wasn't on the team a year ago, is a fine-looking prospect. Horne is a 6-2 senior who can be used as a guard or forward. Also impressive is Herb Buckley, Wendell's brother, a 5-9 guard.

Jeff Warren (5-11 senior) and Darren Green (6-3 junior) are among the leading candidates for starting roles.

"I feel we're going to have the best bench since I've started to coach here," Meriweather said. "We also have ample speed and we'll be a much improved ball club over a year ago."

Romulus is still an independent, unable to find a league to call its own. And that one fact hurts the Eagles.

"When you compete for a league title, you have a goal," Meriweather said. "Though there are the state playoffs to look forward to, there has to be something before that."

Small, speedy Franklin '5' faces 'toughies' 1st week

Livonia Franklin pulled off one of the biggest "turnarounds" of the decade last season when Coach Bob Visser's cagers dropped their first five games, then soared back to a 16-8 season which included the Northwest Suburban and Class A District championships.

Visser hasn't forgotten it. "I knew the boys would jell in time and they did," Visser said. "But, we're hoping for a better start this season. However, I'll be fielding the smallest team I have ever coached here."

Visser has had the comfort of a 6-8 Kevin Kaseta, (now at University of Detroit) and Dan Pederson (6-6) in bygone years. This year his biggest man is Mike Kaseta, but the 6-4 senior is hobbling with a knee injury.

"We're going to have to use Mike sporadically," Visser revealed, "until we see how that knee develops."

The veteran cage coach said that he "has decent height, but lacks the real big man."

"So we're going to emphasize the full court press and speed," Visser said.

Franklin's probable lineup could include four six-footers (or better) with Dennis Smith (6-3), Jeff Phillips (6-0), Dave Wilson (6-0) and John Zannis (6-0). Ken Scarpace, a 5-11 senior, could complete the lineup.

Others seeking starting assignments are Bill Wilson (6-0), Glen Murray (5-9), Paul Tietzrak (6-0), Pat Golem (6-4), John Seeny (6-4) and Phil Rettig (5-10).

BOB VISSER

Visser sees Redford Township Thurston as the premier threat to his title but includes John Glenn and North Farmington in the title race.

"In fact, the title is really up for grabs," Visser said. "It's very difficult to count anyone out and I feel we're as strong a contender as any of the teams."

Visser will learn in the first couple of weeks what his motley crew is made of as the Patriots are scheduled to meet Plymouth Salem and city rival, Bentley, for their first two games.

"It won't take long for us to know where we're hurting," Visser said. "With teams like Salem and Bentley, we're going to learn fast. "But I'm optimistic and I'm going to remain so," he added.

The Bentley-Franklin game is scheduled for Tuesday night at Franklin. The Patriots played Salem last Tuesday and have Friday night off to do some scouting.

Spartans win opener

rivals 36-16 thanks to 12 points by Jim Steudle, eight from sophomore Floyd Simmons and six each by Mark Lipinski and Tim Cordin.

East never cut into the Spartans' 20-point lead in the last period as both teams substituted freely.

Simmons finished the night with 21 points, his team's high while Steudle (16), Cordin (15) and Lipinski (10) also were in double figures.

East's Jim Dziekan started the season with 33 points, 11 in the first period, to pace all scorers. Teammate Dan Loacano added 17.

Cherry Hill will launch the league phase of the season Friday night, clashing with an always and pesky Melvindale on the Spartan court.

CHRISTMAS IS HAPPENING HERE

I-94 at Rawsonville Rd., Belleville

Make Somebody Happy

Tie one on with presents that go a long way in his fashion future. He'll want these timely new ties that reflect the spirit of contemporary elegance. Pick a pair or more for that very lucky man you know. Luxurious fabrics and rich colorings.

5.50 to 9.00

Our rugby pullover. Smooth-fitting, in dacron-cotton knit with a knack for taking the action. Spiked with bright, white knit collar and 2-button placket. Great fashion colors.

12.00

Two words sum up what he wants this year: Dress Shirts. The contemporary kind. In styles he'd choose for himself, ombreed stripes, subtle checks, keyed-down plaids, and muted solids.

11.00 to 17.00

Give him a European navy blazer to up date everything he wears it with. It's double-breasted design is heightened by peak lapels, open patch pockets, and deeper side vents. $85.00. Also double-breasted navy suits in wool worsted. $165.00

Our Christmas collection of Sport Shirts and Slacks are outstanding. Sport Shirts in plaids, solids, prints and western styles $12.00 to $27.50. Slacks in solids, plaids and checks in polyester and in wools. $16.00 to $45.00.

Outstanding value in RCA ColorTrak TV.

RCA's most automatic TV ever! Electronically tracks and corrects the TV signal before it becomes a picture on your screen.

- Automatic contrast/color "tracking" circuitry ties brightness, contrast and color together so that all three are balanced simultaneously.
- RCA Super AccuFilter black matrix picture tube has filtered color phosphors that absorb room light. Result: colors appear sharper and more vivid.
- Automatic color control holds flesh tones and other colors to the settings you select—even when TV signal varies or you change channels.

LITTON MICROWAVES

Combination
Cooking:
A better way to cook.

• COMBINATION OF MICROWAVE AND CONVENTIONAL COOKING

Why microwave and conventional cooking in one oven? Simply because the two in combination cook better as one. Microwaves penetrate and cook the food quickly; conventional heat browns-in crispness. And saves time and electric energy, too.

• MICROWAVE SPEED

The new Litton combination microwave range also gives you the speed and convenience of microwave cooking only.

• CONVENTIONAL HEAT

Yet, the Litton combination microwave range can also be used as a conventional oven, or for smokeless, closed-door broiling. And it's available with a self-cleaning oven system that removes even the toughest baked-on stains.

The Ultimate Cooking Center: MICROWAVE • SELF-CLEANING • SMOOTHTOP

• MICROWAVE SPEED

Eye-level microwave oven with automatic defrost, thaws and heats foods so quickly, you can prepare dinner right from the freezer.

• SELF-CLEANING EASE

Self-cleaning system removes even the toughest baked-on stains.

• SMOOTH GOOD LOOKS

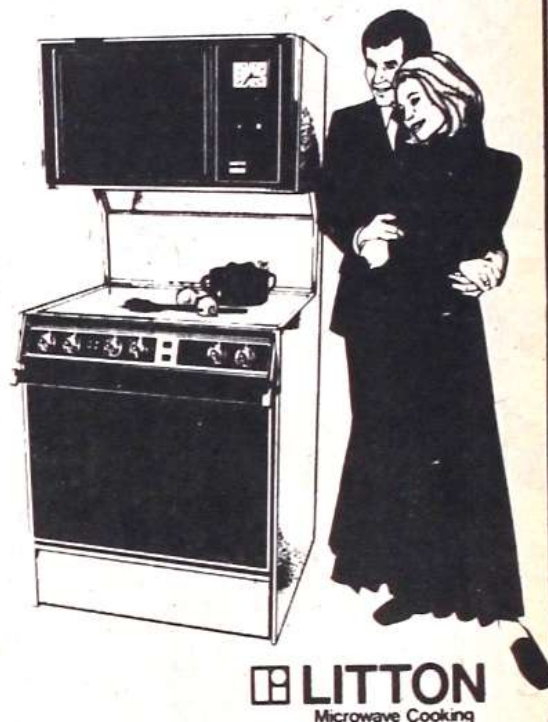

One-piece smoothtop, so spills can't drip away.

• COOKS FOUR WAYS

Cook in whatever time you have with micro-wave, conventional oven and smoothtop, individually or in combination.

• FULL FEATURED

Micro-Timer digital control. Special 8-inch "quick-heat" cooktop element. Safe, push-to-turn controls. Black glass see-thru oven doors. Closed-door smokeless broil.
